St. Alban's Vestry Asks Co-Operation of Parishioners

St. Alban's church requires $150 to settle its liabilities by December 31. An appeal is made to all church members who may have fallen behind in their pledges for church support to make up their promised contributions by the end of the year, as if these were all paid it would enable the churchwardens to meet all obligations.

On Christmas Day the services will be celebrations of the holy communion at 7 a.m. and 9 a.m., and at St. Luke's, Blairmore, at 11 a.m. There will be no evening services.

On New Year's Day services at St. Alban's will be at 9 a.m. with a celebration of the holy communion, instead of 11 a.m., to enable the rector to leave for his home to spend the holiday. A midnight service will be held at St. Luke's, Blairmore, to usher in the new year, commencing shortly before midnight on Saturday, Dec. 31. All members are asked to keep these times of services in mind.

Since the taking over of parish duties by Rev. John R. Hague, considerable improvements have been made, and the vestry ask that united support be given towards the work of the church, in order that not only the sphere of its influence in local circles may be widened, but that the parish may do its share towards helping in the missionary work of the church. Bishop L. Ralph Sherman is an untiring worker for Calgary diocese, of which St. Alban's is a part, and his example should create an incentive in the parish to do its part.

Thanks, Brother!

Jack Kelly, Sports editor of the Edmonton Bulletin, writes:

"I have just received your special edition of The Journal carrying the big lay-out on the Coleman Canadians.

Please accept my congratulations. Your paper is one weekly that does things in the style of the big dailies. The spread is ample evidence that your Canadians have splendid support in Coleman—and that is a major factor in building a winning club.

Edmonton fans are looking forward eagerly to seeing your team in action here."

Canadians Lose to Turner Valley 2-1

One minute and three seconds was all that was required Monday evening to change a winning game into a losing one when Coleman lost to Turner Valley Oilers 2-1 at Calgary.

Sailing along with a goal advantage in the third period Canadians were rudely jolted when a Turner Valley up-icing resulted in the puck whistling past Kemp at the seven and eight minute marks. It was at this stage of the game that insufficient training began to tell. Coleman, judging from the radio commentator's remarks, is still a poorly conditioned team and lacked the necessary punch to get back the tying goal. The loss of these two valuable points can therefore be charged to the team's poor condition.

Joyce on a pass from Sprout put Coleman ahead midway through the first period. The Chakowski brothers shot the tying and winning goals in the third period for Turner Valley.

Dynamiters Hand Canadians 3-1 Defeat

Canadians met defeat in their first exhibition game of the season on Saturday evening when Kimberley gained a 3-1 decision. The ice was soft and players of both teams tired rapidly. 900 rabid fans attended the game.

In tribute to the memory of the late Bill Bell, both teams lined up on the ice, while the fans stood with bare heads for one minute's silence.

Coach Kryschuk was less concerned over the final score than the majority of the fans. He had seventeen men in uniform and was determined to see how they showed up in actual competition in order to line-up his team for Monday evening against Turner Valley Oilers. He mixed his lines freely with the result that the local players looked ragged on numerous plays.

Kimberley players have played together for a year or more and are a well drilled team so that they showed to advantage. They were full value for their win and it will be no surprise to this corner if it is the Dynamiters who blast their way to the B.C. title and come in quest of the Allan Cup next spring.

Teachers of Pass Schools Met Here

Crows Nest Pass branch of the Alberta Teachers Alliance met in Coleman high school on Dec. 1, 41 teachers being present. Miss I. Sellar, B.A., of Hillcrest, and Mr. S. White, B.Sc., Blairmore, were appointed representatives on the executive of South Alberta Teachers Association. Mr. W. Bruchette, B. Sc., Hillcrest, gave an interesting address on "Grading and Promotion." In the open forum discussions the principals of the various schools outlined their systems used in grading and promotion. The evening closed with a delicious lunch being served by Coleman teachers.—W. Marcolin, press correspondent.

New Screen At Palace Theatre

Renovations have been made this week to the stage at the Palace theatre. A new screen has been erected four feet back from where the old one was located making more floor space on the stage. It is the intention of Mr. Cole to bring a number of vaudeville acts to the Palace and a larger stage was necessary.

Humor In The Classified Ads.

A type of classified advertisement that always raises a smile is this: "Will the party who was seen taking so-and-so from Mrs. so-and-so's on such-and-such a date (fill in your imaginary names) return same and save further trouble." Now, on the face of it, the natural question would occur to one reading the ad., why not go after the person who was seen taking the article and ask him for it. Of course, if he was of the pugnacious type and was liable to give you a punch on the nose or a black eye for such impertinence, you might be excused for not directly asking him for it.

But a neat come-back was noticed some time ago in answer to an ad. of the type outlined above. It was to this effect: "If the person who saw so-and-so taking such-and-such an article from a certain place on a certain date will come and ask for it we will gladly return same to him."

Boy Scout and Girl Guide Notes

This week patrols were organized, and the patrol leaders and seconds appointed. Eagle patrol, Jack Jones and Alfred DeLuca; Beaver patrol, Arnold McDonald; Lynx patrol, Gene Lant and Billy Milley; Cougar patrol, Reggie McMillen and Vance Hulbert.

Many newcomers passed the Tenderfoot test, others going ahead with other work. It is hoped that when the King and Queen visit Canada, all Scouts be in uniform and have passed their tests. We are considering playing basketball and hockey.

Kindly Co-Operate

Advertisers are reminded to have their copy for change of advertisements in early during the next two weeks, for with additional work it enables more attention to be given if ads. are sent in early than if left to the last day, when hurried preparation does not permit as much care in giving good typographical appearance to advertisements.

Killed At International Mine This Afternoon

David Fraser, 21 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Fraser, Graftonville, was killed this afternoon at International mine, when the haulage rope towing seven loaded mine cars up the slope broke. One man reported to be riding the rope jumped, but Fraser, who was lower down the slope, was caught and smashed so badly that death ensued very shortly. At time of going to press details were not available.

Law-Breakers Fined at Bellevue

Louis Gominio of Bellevue disobeyed the law, which cost him $20 and costs. Game Guardian J. Cardinal found some game birds in his possession, killed out of season. He had no option but to plead guilty, as the birds were sufficient evidence for a conviction. It is alleged, members of the Rod and Gun Club at Bellevue, which is supposed to uphold the law, are guilty of infractions of the Fish and Game laws. Mr. Cardinal's work in the district has had good effect in routing out those who disregard the laws which aim to protect wild life in the hills.

Newspaper Space Costs Real Money

99 per cent of people know little of the intricacies, the detail and the labor entailed in newspaper production. They pick up the paper, read it and pass their comments, complimentary or otherwise—most often otherwise! They do not realize that every time a line of type is set, it costs real money in wages; that when it is printed it costs money for presswork; that the white paper on which the type is printed is not purchased from the mills by just asking for it. Yet many have no hesitation in asking for notices to be published FREE because it happens to be in a good cause—for someone! Now, truth to tell, newspapers do give a lot of free space to worthy organizations, but for heaven's sake remember, it is costing the newspaper publisher real money to produce it. Remember too, that if you have some printing to be done, the square thing to do is to take it to the newspaper office that gives you free publicity. If we were hard-boiled, we would charge for the white space on the same basis that the merchant charges for the stock off his shelves. That is his stock in trade, and white space is a newspaper's combined with the service which the newspaper gives.

21 were present on Wednesday and it is hoped the attendance will keep increasing.—Your news correspondent, Billy Milley.

Another Youth Problem

A good deal is heard about the plight of the jobless youth of the country but not so much is said about the misfortunes of the many young men who are plucked into employment for which they are not fitted, either by inclination or education, or both and who, as a result, either presently and themselves out of work or eke out a miserable existence on an inadequate wage with little hope of improving their lot except after a lengthy period of painful trial and error.

The existence of a substantial number of these square pegs in round holes in the larger towns and cities, many of them originating from the farms and small villages, cannot but arouse the sympathy of the spectator and curiosity as to the underlying causes of this condition.

"Well, he has a job anyway and look at the thousands who are unable to get any kind of work" is apt to be the reaction of some of the unemployed and of some who are successful in their chosen vocation, but who do not realize that the situation represents a problem of economic and human waste which requires solution just as much as the problem of unemployment itself.

For it cannot be gainsaid that the young man who is struggling to make a living in employment which is incompatible and for which he has little or no aptitude, is likely sooner or later to become imbued with a spirit of frustration when he realizes, perhaps after several of the best years of his life, that he is faced with the alternative of starting afresh at the bottom in some other vocation or of remaining where he is with all prospects of advancement beyond the mediocre either extremely remote or entirely absent. In other words the number of years that he has spent in fruitless effort have represented a waste not only for himself but for the industry in which he is engaged.

Shortage of Skilled Labor in Sight

There are many causes responsible for this condition, not the least of which is the great depression which has brought about a stalemate from which industry has not yet recovered. In the earlier stages of the depression large numbers of men were discharged. Some of the experienced men are now beyond working age and others, somewhat younger, have not yet been able to get back into their former vocation.

While some industrial firms have, in the meantime, filled up gaps caused by death or the necessity to take on additional help with former experienced employees, others have taken on younger and inexperienced men at lower wages on the assumption that they were economizing. Included in this group are many young men who have taken courses in the technical schools and who presumably, therefore, were equipped to fill the vacancies as well as many others who have had little or no training. For every vacant job there has been an overwhelming rush of applicants and, under the circumstances it is not surprising that there are a good many of these square pegs in round holes.

Moreover, executives have found by experience that too often the products of these technical schools are not much better equipped for practical industrial conditions than some who have had little or no training and as a result the lad who appears in the workshop as a graduate finds that he must start practically from scratch or try to get work in some other branch of industry.

As a result heads of industrial concerns are already visualizing a time in the not far distant future when there will actually be a shortage of skilled workers, despite the large number of unemployed and the not insignificant number of youths who are being turned out of institutions devoted to training students in the technical arts and crafts.

Close Relations Needed

The situation appears to warrant investigation into the possibility of a closer tie-up between the technical institutions and industry, possibly the development of some system under which the student will spend a part of his time in the school and a part of his time in the workshop, not the workshop at the school but in the factory or the garage where he will meet practical everyday problems at first hand; in fact, a modern development of the old apprenticeship system.

It is along these lines that the Dugles are solving this problem with considerable success. Under their apprenticeship law, enacted in 1921 and extended in 1937, provision is made for apprenticeships of four to five years, the administration of which is carried out by trades committees and apprentices councils, on both of which there is equal representation of employers and employees.

In every case of apprenticeship there must be a contract between master and apprentice, recognized by the public authorities. In this contract the duration of the apprenticeship, including provision for a six-month probationary period, and the wages to be paid must be stated. During his apprenticeship the apprentice must, at his employer's expense, attend the classes in technical as well as cultural training at a local technical school recognized by the Minister of Trade.

Industry of to-day is complicated by the very rapid strides being made in the fields of technology and science. The processes and operations of to-day are obsolete by tomorrow and this condition necessitates a very close and intimate relationship between education and industry itself.

The Prime Of Usefulness

Average Worker At Forty Is Valuable To His Employer. The idea that men and women who have reached the age of 40 are no longer assets in industry is scoffed at by the American Legion re-employment director, states the Detroit Free Press.

And he cites studies made by the Labor Department, the American Association of Manufacturers and university researchers to show that because of his maturity and greater stability and sense of responsibility, an average worker at 40 years of age is just reaching the prime of his usefulness.

Common sense and industrial experience reach the same conclusion.

A job in which physical brawn and stamina alone are required naturally can be better done by men who have not passed the peak of their physical strength. And yet even here no arbitrary age limit can be set. A man at 60 who has taken care of himself, will be able to stand the physical test better than a man of 40, who has dissipated his strength in riotous living.

There are many jobs in industry, though, where physical strength is a secondary consideration. And it is in these jobs that employers have discovered that men and women over 40 are as valuable as, if not more valuable than, younger persons.

At the age of 40 men and women if they are worth anything at all, usually have acquired family responsibilities. They are likely, therefore, to be less radical and more loyal. They have experience and maturity of judgment, which come only with years. They cannot be replaced by boys and girls without temporary loss to their employers.

All this is so well known to business men and industrialists that it is rather surprising that it should be felt necessary, at this late date, to tell the country that "useful life begins at 40."

Civil Aviation In Canada

Pilots Now Fly More Than Ten Million Miles A Year

Civil aviation in Canada, a $5,000,000 investment, is making tremendous progress and its pilots now fly more than 10,000,000 miles a year—a distance equivalent to 400 times around the world at the equator.

A report prepared by the Dominion bureau of statistics disclosed since 1933, aircraft mileage for civil pilots has more than doubled and total freight and express carried has jumped six-fold.

In 1933 the mileage was 4,400,000 and last year 10,700,000. Freight and express carried in 1933 amounted to 4,200,000 pounds and this increased to 26,200,000 in 1937.

Licensed civil airports jumped from 90 in 1933 to 158 last year; licensed civil aircraft showed increase from 245 in the mid-depression year to 604 in 1937.

Final figures for 1937 indicated there were 320 commercial pilots in the Dominion, 129 limited commercial pilots, 73 transport pilots, 635 private pilots and 350 air engineers.

A breakdown of the total investment in civil aviation disclosed that there was $3,291,000 invested in aircraft last year, $3,039,000 in organization expenditures, $811,000 in land and buildings, $457,000 in equipment and $44,000 in furniture and office appliances.

There were 159,829 passengers carried by civil aviation planes with Ontario leading the provinces in origin of traffic with 63,191 passengers. Quebec second with 30,688 and Saskatchewan third with 14,366.

The Queen Mother

Will Supervise Care Of Young Princesses During Absence Of King And Queen

The visit of the King and Queen to America next year will bring Queen Mary from her self-imposed semi-retirement to supervise the care of their two daughters.

Princess Elizabeth, heir to the throne, and her sister, Princess Margaret Rose, will be under the supervision of the queen mother but will be directly cared for by their governess, Miss Joan Crawford. They will follow their normal school routine, living at Buckingham Palace.

It is expected, however, that Queen Mary's visits to Buckingham Palace will be much more frequent.

While the children will go daily to Marlborough House to visit their grandmother. She will resume her former practice of taking them for afternoon visits to places of public interest, such as the zoo, art galleries and museums.

Buckingham Palace sources said that the two young princesses have accepted the trip of their parents philosophically, but without showing chagrin because they cannot go too.

Grand Championships

Western Winners Are Named In Various Classes

Nels Linden of Gwynne, Alta., not only won the National Wheat Championship at the 1938 Royal Winter Fair, but also took the barley Grand Championship. He won the wheat crown with a sample of Reward wheat, a hard red spring variety originated by the Cereal Division, Dominion Experimental Farms. It weighed 60 pounds to the bushel. The Grand Championship barley was a sample of the Trell variety.

Nels Linden went to Alberta from Minnesota over 20 years ago and farms about 1,000 acres at Gwynne, near Wetaskiwin. He has been a member of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association for several years.

The reserve championship for wheat at the Royal went to Cecil Trowell of Saltcoats, Sask., for his sample of Reward. He, too, is a member of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

The 1937 National Wheat Championship at the Royal Winter Fair, went to James Sebastian of Wembley, Alberta, a member of the Canadian Boys' and Girls' Farm Clubs. This year his sample of Reward was placed fourth.

W. Justyn Rigby, Wembley, Alberta, was awarded the Grand Championship for oats. He showed a sample of the Victory variety. The championship for peas went to Douglas Gibson, Ladner, B.C., for alfalfa seed to A. E. Rusk, White Fox, Sask.; for potatoes to George Elchuk, Mullilo, Ont. and for beans to G. F. Hilliard, Monarch, Alberta.

A Long Highway

Dream Of 12,000-Mile Road From Alaska To South America

A highway starting in the northern snows of Alaska and ending in the southern snows of Patagonia is gradually emerging from the dream stage.

Along 12,000 miles of road, if the dream comes true, automobiles some day may go from Canada and the United States to the 20 republics of Latin America.

A report to the Pan-American Conference will show that great progress has been made since the last conference at Montevideo five years ago. Great tracts of the highway are in operation. You can drive from point considerably north in Canada through the United States, through Mexico City toward Guatemala.

Canada recently has taken a direct interest in travel facilities between the American continent. The Federal Highway Bureau has conferred in Washington recently about the proposed highway south from Alaska through British Columbia.

Canadian Macaroni

Exports From Canada To The United Kingdom Are Increasing

The quality of Canadian macaroni on the British market brings praise to the Dominion, states the Canadian Trade Commissioner at Bristol, England. Due to its popularity, there are enquiries from time to time from distributors of food products who wish to act as direct agent of a Canadian manufacturer. For the 12 months ending March, 1938, exports of macaroni from Canada to the United Kingdom amounted to 5,592,573 pounds, valued at $312,845. For the previous twelve months, the amount was 4,766,077 pounds, valued at $251,195.

Juvenile Contest

Boys' And Girls' Farm Clubs Compete At Toronto Winter Fair

The eighth annual National Contests for the Boys' and Girls' Farm Clubs conducted by the Canadian Council on Boys' and Girls' Club Work in conjunction with the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, were held at the Fair on November 14. These annual contests are provided by the Council as a reward to the members of the provincial championship teams for their efficiency in farm club work, the purpose of the National Contests being the advancement and co-ordination of junior farm club work in Canada. The movement of boys' and girls' farm clubs commenced in 1931, and there are now 37,251 members throughout the Dominion.

At this year's contests, teams from Manitoba, Quebec and British Columbia won the first places. Manitoba winning three, Quebec, two, and British Columbia, one. There were six projects in the competitions—Dairy Cattle, Beef Cattle, Swine, Poultry, Seed Grain, and Seed Potato. In all, 32 teams entered, number 64 members, eight of whom were girls. Each team consisted of two members and represented all the provinces of Canada: Nova Scotia, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia sent four teams each; New Brunswick and Quebec, three each, and Prince Edward Island, two. All the teams, according to the conditions of the National Contests, were the winners in the respective provincial contests, their expenses in connection with the visit to the Winter Fair being paid by the Canadian Council.

U.S. Plane Production

Goal Of 1,000 Planes A Month Expected To Be Reached

United States aircraft manufacturers are seeking means of tripling their output to keep pace with President Roosevelt's report program of acquiring one of the world's strongest fleets of warplanes.

A mass production goal of 1,000 planes a month, to be attained within a few months if possible, was laid down at a conference of manufacturers and government officials, informed persons declared.

Some of the president's advisers hope that within two years the industry's capacity (though not actual output) may be stepped up to 2,000 planes a month.

Only Germany, officials believe, can turn out military planes now at the 1,000 monthly rate. American output of all types, including commercial aircraft, averaged only 320 planes a month the first nine months of this year.

Canada Captures 27 Championships At Chicago Exposition

Chicago.—Canadian livestock breeders and grain growers proved again the increasing excellence of the Dominion's agricultural products when winning lists were compiled at the close of the 39th International Livestock Exposition.

Canada captured 27 championships and 60 first places, the Dominion ranking fourth behind Illinois, Indiana and Oklahoma. Illinois for the third year led all states and provinces with 61 championships and 164 first-place blue ribbons.

In the ranking by individual states and provinces as compiled by exhibition officials the province of Ontario ranked fifth, taking 21 championships and 50 first places.

Ontario, 21 and 50; Saskatchewan, three championships, five firsts; Alberta, two and three firsts; British Columbia, one championship and two firsts.

Canada, as usual, made its top flight showing in the 20th annual International Grain Show, clinched when the Rigby brothers of Wembley, Alta., captured both the coveted wheat king and oats king crowns.

F. Lloyd Rigby won in wheat and William Justyn Rigby in oats. Dominion exhibitors also were strong, however, in the sheep classes with H. Noel Gibson, Mont. Brydes, Ont.; Charles J. Shore, Glamorgan, Ont.; and John D. Patterson, Richmond Hill, Ont., scoring outstanding triumphs.

Last year Canada won 28 championships and 63 first places.

Iceland Celebrates

Only Nation In The World Without Army Or Navy

Reykjavik, Iceland.—Iceland, only nation in the world without a single soldier, warship or fighting plane, rejoiced in 20 years of sovereignty, peace and prosperity.

The anniversary of the state's sovereignty was observed by student processions to the grave of the statesman John Sigurdsson and a broadcast by Prime Minister Hermann Jonasson to Icelanders in America.

On Dec. 1, 1918, King Christian X of Denmark confirmed an Icelandic-Danish law which made Iceland again a sovereign state. Since then Iceland and Denmark have operated as separate nations, with King Christian representing the supreme executive power in each.

Award Was Refused

Cincinnati.—F. W. Elven, editor of The Cincinnati Free Press, German language newspaper, who recently was named by the German government to receive its second class eagle award, said he had refused to accept the citation.

Suggests Dominion Should Administer All Relief, Social Services

Ottawa.—If the Dominion were to administer all relief and social services, the growing toll of losses to investors and creditors of western Canada could be avoided—and no great increase in federal taxation would be necessary. Hon. Stuart Garson, Manitoba provincial treasurer, submitted as public sittings of the royal commission on Dominion-provincial relations ended.

Ontario taxpayers were contributing substantially now to federal taxes from which western relief was being financed, he said. If relief administration were not rationalized, they would also contribute even more than they had in the past by increased "indirect losses," as bondholders, shareholders, insurance policy holders.

Equally important to an effective adjustment of western provincial finances, Mr. Garson said, was prompt Dominion assistance in a general refunding of provincial debt. Manitoba proposed refunding of its debt by the government at 3½ per cent, emulating the Dominion's success in obtaining lower interest rates.

"To do nothing about this provincial debt situation is the most unsound policy that Canada can follow at this time," he told the commission.

The supplementary sittings of the commission concluded, one year and two days after its first public sittings opened at Winnipeg. At the close

Taxation In Canada

Burden Is Unbearably Heavy, Says Hon. T. A. Cresser

Montreal.—Taxation in Canada is "unbearably heavy," Hon. T. A. Cresser, minister of natural resources, told the chamber of mines a division of Montreal's board of trade. He said governments have been unwise at times "but in future we should chart our course in sensible fashion so far as expenditure of money is concerned."

Mr. Cresser was cheered by the 600 guests present at the dinner when he said: "We must take stock of our expenditures. We must make improvements in a way that will add to the productive wealth of the country and leave to later years the other things that seem to be necessary in a modern civilization."

The federal minister said Canada's heavy taxation was due largely to the heavy services we carry and for only 11,000,000 people. He pointed to the progress of the mining industry in Canada and said he expected it to make an even greater contribution to the national economy of the country.

"Five years ago we didn't, but now we know enough to realize Canada is blessed with minerals as few other countries are blessed," he said. "The sheet anchor we have in our mineral deposits is the reason we haven't slipped back during the United States depression."

New President

Hacha Now Head Of The Czechoslovak Republic

Prague.—Dr. Emil Hacha, formerly head of the supreme court administration, was elected third president of Czechoslovakia by the national assembly. Being the only candidate, his election was mere formality.

The new chief of state will be known as the "president of the Czechoslovak republic," a phrase which officially hypheated the name of the nation to indicate equality of Czechs and Slovaks.

Rudolf Beran, a deputy and agrarian party member who was premier of President Eduard Benes' open party, will be the new premier. He is expected to pursue a completely pro-German course.

Directors Announced

Guelph, Ont.—Directors of the Canadian Shorthorn Association, announced here, include Hugh Catt, Lumby, B.C.; J. C. Yule, Carstairs, Alta.; J. L. Water, Clive, Alta.; W. A. Small, Craven, Sask.; C. N. Sinclair, Sifton, Sask.; M. S. Longmuir, Grinland, Sask.

Opening Of Parliament

January 12th Is The Date Chosen For Next Session

Ottawa.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced the government had chosen January 12 for opening the next session of parliament.

This date, he said, at a press conference following a cabinet meeting, had been considered most suitable, having regard to convenience of members coming from a long distance, and to the desire of the government to have its legislative program ready.

In selecting the second Thursday in January for the formal opening the government has given parliament a bare four months to complete its work before arrival in Canada of King George and Queen Elizabeth next May 15.

In view of the fact 1939 is expected to be a general election year with a consequent heavy legislative program and the likelihood of prolonged debate, the objective of prorogation before the visit of Their Majesties would seem difficult of attainment observers believe.

If prorogation is impossible within four months there will be an adjournment to permit members and ministers to be in their own ridings for the Royal tour.

First business of the session, once the speech from the throne has been disposed of, will be consideration of the new Canada-United States trade agreement which, although it becomes effective provisionally next January 1, must be ratified by parliament.

Mr. Mackenzie King has made no recent observation on the likely time for the next general election but his government will have been four years in office by next October and the general rule has been to go to the country after four years.

Craving For Security

People Who Are Afraid To Stand On Their Own Feet

Ottawa.—A symptom of the delirium that affects the world to-day is that "people are afraid to stand on their own feet," Lord Tweedsmuir told the local St. Andrew's Society at its annual banquet here.

"They seem to want to huddle together for security, and to sell their souls to a dictator or to a machine," he was sure the spirit of independence which dominated Scotsmen was a dangerous against this in Scotland.

"But there is another thing as dangerous as this craving for a false security by surrendering freedom," said the governor-general.

"That is the modern craze for false doctrines—what the jargon of to-day calls ideologies. These are creeds which seem to be accepted with a passionate devotion, as if they were new revelations, but which, for the most part, are the oldest of heresies, which were centuries ago exploded and discarded."

Quick Trip To Egypt

Pick-a-Back Plane Mercury Carried Christmas Mail From Southampton Alexandria, Egypt.—The pick-a-back seaplane Mercury, laden with more than a ton of empire Christmas mail alighted here, setting a new record over the Imperial Airways route with a 14-hour, six-minute flight from Southampton.

The speedy seaplane, upper unit of the Mayo composite aircraft, took off from its mother ship over Southampton for the 2,400-mile flight to Alexandria.

Valuable Shrub

Courtenay, B.C.—Devil's club, a thorny shrub found in the coast district of British Columbia, is providing employment for six men in this Vancouver Island town. A New York clinic has placed an order here for half a ton of roots from the shrub, for use as a treatment for diabetes.

ABDULLAH YUSUF ALI

Former Minister of Revenue for the State of Hyderabad, India, photographed on board the Canadian Pacific liner "Montrose" as he arrived in Montreal to start a lecture tour of the Dominion under the auspices of the National Council for Education.

He is seen as a direct threat to British interests in the Mediterranean and they warned that continuation of war talk would possibly result in the cancellation of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's proposed visit to Rome.

And with that cancellation they predicted would go all immediate hopes of concluding successfully European appeasement.

In London, the French ambassador consulted privately with Viscount Halifax in an effort to line up British support in dealing with Italy.

Nor did the ambassador hesitate to state his case.

In the event of war with Italy, he made it clear that Great Britain would be vitally concerned, and hence, France expects her full support.

The French government dropped all measures of retaliation against the insurgent labor factions as Premier Edouard Daladier hurriedly turned his attention to the ominous international crisis rapidly developing between Italy and the French Republic.

He proclaimed sweeping amnesty for workers locked out of factories in punishment for the recent strike, and hastily assured full respect for their collective bargaining rights.

The ministry of labor ordered immediate reopening of all nationalized arms and aviation plants, and called upon private employers to cancel lockout programs and resume normal production.

"Italy exports Tunisia," said the Daily Express (London), "but this is a bad moment to demand anything from France. The whole mood of the nation, smarting under Munich and the collapse of her dominions."

Yangtze River Closed

Only Japanese Shipping Allowed To Use China's Trade Artery

Shanghai.—Japan's armed forces have served notice the great Yangtze river, China's main trade artery, would remain closed to all but Japanese shipping until China is conquered and reconstructed under Japanese control.

A joint army and navy communiqué indicated protests of foreign powers, chiefly Great Britain, United States and France, against the closing of the river to their commerce, would be unavailing.

The fighting services said this situation would be continued until the government of General Chiang Kai-shek is destroyed and peace and order restored in China in accordance with Japan's plans for the new order in the Far East.

Late President Of Turkey Had Property Valued At $4,000,000

London.—In the ancient city of Ankara, Turkey, investigation into the estate left by President Kemal Ataturk revealed that the Turkish "strong man" left property valued at $4,000,000.

Prior to his death the president bequeathed a substantial monthly allowance to his sister and five adopted daughters—as well as a sum for the education of the two children of General Ismet Inoni, who succeeded him as the ruler of Turkey.

DUKE AND DUCHESS OF ATHOLL

The Duchess of Atholl has resigned from her seat in the House of Commons to force a by-election at which she will again be a candidate. Because of her criticism of Premier Chamberlain's policy, her local constituency voted that they would not support her in the next election. The Duke of Atholl, chairman of the local Conservative organization, resigned when the vote was passed.

Franco-Italian Accord May Be Shattered By Fascist War Threats

London.—A rudely awakened Great Britain left no doubt in the minds of observers that she would back France; her war-time ally, in the face of a complete shattering of Franco-Italian sacrosanctity.

Newspapers throughout the length of Fleet street proclaimed that there can be no real Anglo-Italian friendship unless Premier Benito Mussolini repudiates the war threats appearing in the Fascist press.

Italy's latest outburst against France was seen as a direct threat to British interests in the Mediterranean and they warned that continuation of war talk would possibly result in the cancellation of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's proposed visit to Rome.

And with that cancellation they predicted would go all immediate hopes of concluding successfully European appeasement.

In London, the French ambassador consulted privately with Viscount Halifax in an effort to line up British support in dealing with Italy.

Nor did the ambassador hesitate to state his case.

In the event of war with Italy, he made it clear that Great Britain would be vitally concerned, and hence, France expects her full support.

Britain Plans To Put Nation On War Basis In Event Of Hostilities

London.—The British government is laying plans to place the whole industrial life of the nation on a war basis a few hours after an outbreak of hostilities.

The general ideas of the plan were learned after Sir John Anderson, lord privy seal, outlined to the House of Commons a new policy to build up civil defenses. He announced a nationwide voluntary drive for civilian defence and plans for a quick national register on a compulsory basis.

The whole idea of the scheme is to draft a plan whereby the industrial life of the nation may be switched over to a wartime basis with a minimum of interruption and delay. It may include moving vital industrial plants from dangerous areas of the country to protect them from bombers. This might involve some form of compulsion over men and women workers to follow the plans but it is understood the government hopes it can bring capital and labor together without the necessity of compulsion.

Sir John Anderson, the cabinet minister responsible for civilian defence, told the House of Commons 20,000,000 handbooks would be sent to householders giving details of services open to volunteers, outlined other details of a broad voluntary project, and announced the plans for a shift to compulsory national wartime registration which he said "may become necessary."

Sir John disclosed machinery is being set up to effect compulsory civilian mobilization within three weeks of the outbreak of war and said a voluntary register by localities would be combined in peacetime with measures "for insuring that all who wish to serve their country shall have the means of knowing how their services can best be utilized."

The handbooks, the first step, will give material on services like police, air raids precaution, nursing and the regular and reserve armed forces. They are expected to be in the hands of every householder by mid-January.

The second step would be a compilation of a "full list of all key occupations which if the country has to mobilize for defence, would be so essential to war effort of the nation that persons above a certain age who are engaged in them could not be spared for any other form of national service."

He announced an intensive recruiting campaign beginning the middle of January, steps to build the national service organization to help individuals decide which places they would fill best in the defence scheme, and a general scheme of preliminary instruction in the principles of civilian defence and the expediting of arrangements for training volunteers.

Sir John added that it will become a "part of the ordinary duties of citizenship to know the rudiments of aid raid defence and how the problems of civil defence may react on the normal activities of the community."

It was predicted new defence measures would include building important factories in the "distressed areas" as an aid in wiping them out.

He said the labor ministry would bring into consultation representatives of both employers and workers in co-ordinating the country's services for defence.

"We proposed further," Sir John stated, "that the people who volunteer for certain classes of civilian service should be invited to undertake a more definite obligation of a constructive nature than has been expected hitherto."

"Our aim is to enroll by these means early in the new year a sufficient number of recruits to bring the number of volunteers up to the estimated requirements of each of the various services. We hope also to obtain an adequate number of reserves for each civilian service."

No Propaganda Bureau

British Government Has No Intention Of Establishing One

London.—The government has no intention of establishing a propaganda department or controlling news. Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons. Arthur Henderson, Labor, asked whether in view of anti-British propaganda efforts of some countries the government would not consider installing a special press and propaganda department.

Current Comment on Local Events

IT IS EASY to spend other people's money. That's why legislators are so extravagant. Were it their own money 90 per cent. of them wouldn't be getting the indemnities they pay themselves from the taxpayers' money.

THERE is a danger of democratic government disappearing in Alberta. The manner in which the taxpayers' money is being used up in petty graft by way of special committees, per diem allowances and other raids on the treasury is becoming alarming, to say the least.

MR. ABERHART is really a dual personality. As Bob Deachman remarks, one Mr. Aberhart doesn't know what the other Mr. Aberhart said. In Alberta in 1935 he said that $25 monthly would be paid to every adult if he were elected. In Seaforth, his home town, in a church, he told the people he never said monthly dividends would be paid to the people. He also said that he had always been willing to co-operate with the Dominion government; yet he wouldn't present a brief to the Rowell commission. There are so many instances where the two Mr. Aberharts contradict each other.

THE writer attended a session at the Bible Institute in Calgary over a year ago. There is no sanctity about a service of the type at which our premier holds forth. One who doesn't know him might imagine, listening on the radio, that he was just rambling along. Do not be mistaken. All that you hear has been carefully prepared so that it will have a very subtle effect, and what may appear to be the spontaneous or impromptu remarks of a wrathful Mr. Aberhart in denouncing the common enemy, the "big shots", and the lesser fry who will not march under the Social Credit banner, has been carefully written down so that none of its effect will be lost or minimized. There is a mixture of cunning, of sincerity, of duplicity and guile which is quite remarkable in a man professing to be a man of God, a prophet and a seer.

THE remarkable success of the "Texaco Nickel Club" is mainly due to the fact that people love to hear their names over the radio, or to see it in print. There is always a novel attraction to it. Thousands of nickels, to make up a total of about $1,500, poured in during the week. Credit is due the men and women who count the nickels and record the names so that they might be announced over the radio station CFRC. Many a down-and-outer might go all day looking for nickels, with poor results. He has no publicity to offer in return. But a radio station giving your name out as having donated a nickel—well, that's different. However, some good will result from the flood of nickels. Even the post-office department would reap a slice of revenue it wouldn't otherwise have received. Human nature has a trait that is susceptible to flattery, and the sweetest sound to most people is in hearing their own name.

"IT WAS AT AUNT DINAH'S," ETC.

The Journal staff became unduly alarmed as they saw a number of ladies approaching in the direction of this office. You can never tell what may be the result when women rally forth on the war-path. But such fears proved to be needless, for the ladies were engaged on a peaceful mission—they were going to a nearby neighbor's to help in a quilting "bee." There is something fascinating to women in these gatherings. They sit around a big table and stitch, stitch, stitch countless patches of as many colors as were in Joseph's coat and talk, and talk and talk of everything from the dawn of civilization down to the latest arrival in babies. It begets friendships, and at the same time performs a service of lasting value, does a quilting bee.

Usually there is emblazoned on the centre the year it was made, and when laid on a bed reminds you of those slabs they sometimes place on graves, but do not infer that the quilt is meant to cover corpses.

The writer can see yet quite vividly a quilt made by a lady long since departed, and doubtless many helpers, who spent hours in making it, and every time we reflected on the countless words as well as stitches that were employed in its making.

There is something comforting about a quilt made by a quilting party; it conveys so many impressions, reminiscences and neighborhood memories of people who have since departed to happier spheres where quilts are no longer needed and where life is one eternal period of content and happiness. Long may there be quilting "bees," where the ladies get their feet under a common table and talk and stitch to their hearts' content, uninterrupted by such insignificant beings as mere men.

Swing Band Really Swung 'Em! Roars of Laughter!

Johnny Stevulak and his swing band, a group of local artists, appeared at the Palace theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday and gave very pleasing performances. They were given a contract to show at Cole's theatres at Michel, Coleman, Blairmore, Bellevue and Hillcrest, during the next week. Johnny says he is contemplating putting an ad. in "The Billboard" and starting out on tour. The impersonation of Amos and Andy was a scream. Senior Lobo, the talent scout, should have been around. He might have made a selection for an audition on the radio.

DISHONEST ARGUMENT

The notion that the political parties are controlled by the big interests and that things will never be right while the people submit to the will of "those behind the scenes who dictate the policies of the parties," is spread too freely by the Western Producer, among others.

The fact that, at the present time, we have neither railway amalgamation nor a national government bent on carrying out certain policies desired by some of the big interests, and that there is no prospect of having either, is good proof that "those behind the scenes" do not dictate the policies of the parties, for everyone knows that they have tried hard enough for several years to bring those things about.

Radical journals and politicians think that their cause is advanced by anything that discredits the old political parties, and they yield to the temptation to be careless, to the extent of dishonesty, in the statements and arguments they use with that purpose in view. — Winnipeg Free Press.

Co-Operation Necessary For Efficient Service

Postmaster Graham has issued printed instructions governing the mailing of Christmas cards and letters, which everyone using the post office should carefully read and observe. Efficient service can be best obtained by co-operation with the post-office staff. They cannot perform impossibilities, and the Christmas rush is always very trying, even in the ordinary run of business. A little thought and care in attending to details is a great help in facilitating the despatching of mail on time.

As had been expected by Pass hockey fans during the week, weather conditions made it necessary to have the Canadians-Olds hockey game transferred to Lethbridge artificial arena. The game will start at 8:30 sharp Friday evening.

The team will have the benefit of several hours' practice tonight at the Lethbridge artificial ice arena, as they left for the city early this evening.

The game scheduled between Canadians and Lethbridge also threatens to be called off, unless weather conditions change by Monday evening of next week.

BUSINESS CHANGES

The opening announcement of "The Fashion Plate," in the Celli block, Main street, comes just in time for the holiday season. Mr. Boris Spevakow, the proprietor, long experienced in the clothing and dry goods business, decided on opening here after making surveys during the summer. With Mrs. Spevakow and their two children, they have taken up residence in the apartments above the store. Formerly of Winnipeg, Mr. Spevakow was for a time in business in Sexsmith in the Peace River area. They are well pleased with their change, and look forward to developing business here in the Pass.

Earl Bowen's furniture store in the improved quarters next to the liquor store (no joke intended), is replete with many suitable articles for Christmas gifts. Earl tells something of what he has to offer in a well set-up display advertisement in this issue. His former store premises are now occupied by "The Fashion Plate," new ladies' and gents' clothing store opened this week.

Unity For Canada

Future Of The Dominion Depends On A Wider Outlook

Necessity of consolidating the Dominion and guarding against the danger of four or five separate sovereign states in Canada was stressed at a public meeting in Halifax by Charlottetown, Dominion Secretary of the Council of Social Agencies.

Future of the Dominion depended on the Canada-wide outlook of the citizens and the necessity of knowledge from coast to coast of the economic, labor and social needs of the entire country, she declared. Unity in the Dominion was important.

Miss Whitton outlined four points she felt were outstanding in uniting the Dominion:

1. A definite planning of the external relations, between the United States and the United Kingdom.
2. Planned economy at home with distribution and settlement of labor.
3. A national-wide organization of the employment of labor and resources.
4. An organized scheme of social service.

Low Pay For Teachers

Would Eventually Drive Best Type Out Of Profession

Those who advocate low salaries for school teachers neglect to consider two important facts. One is that the profession must be made attractive to the best of our young men and young women, and one of the most effective ways of making it attractive is to pay higher salaries. The second is that unduly low pay for teachers will mean that fewer and fewer will enter the teaching profession, with an eventual serious shortage of school instructors.

When we are dealing with the future of our country, we cannot afford to be penny-pinching. The very highest type of young men and women are needed to guide and influence our boys and girls, and they cannot be obtained unless salaries are paid commensurate with their needs and requirements.—Guelph Mercury.

Strong Jaws

The greatest strength of the wolf lies in its jaws, which are perhaps more powerful than that of any dog. They have often cut through half-inch manila ropes used for leashes with one clip. And for this reason alone it is believed by most hunters that no dog known to man can single-handed conquer a full grown Gray Wolf—Wildlife Wonders.

The first man to prove that the progress of sound through any medium depends upon the elasticity and density of that medium, was Sir Isaac Newton.

It is possible to see an eclipsed moon while the sun is visible.

Old Days On The Prairies

Mounted Police Survivor, Who Went West In 1874

James Fullwood, oldest survivor of the Royal North West Mounted Police, says there was no romance in western Canada police work in his day—it was plain hard work.

Fullwood, sixty-eight years, was constable No. 160 in the first detachment of 300 that went to the prairies in 1874 to help suppress arms and liquor dealing among the Indians.

The liquor traders, he told reporters, "used to supply the Indians with alcohol which had only been slightly diluted with water. Indians had a craving for it and I have known a brave to give his head and furs for a small bottle."

"The traders worked at night and we usually had word from the Indians themselves that they were 'asleep,'" he continued. "A patrol of five or six men would go into the traders' camp and hold them up while we searched for arms. One of the first things we did was to smash the bottles of alcohol."

"Our commanding officer had the powers of a magistrate and he used to try to sentence the men on the spot. If a man committed a murder he would be taken to the nearest town and hanged."

Pay in those days was very poor, Fullwood says. He got 75 cents a day, ate little but buffalo meat and slept where he could.

There was nothing like romance depicted in motion pictures about the force, he declared. "Mostly it was just straightforward police work on horseback. There is even less romance nowadays when the aeroplane is replacing the horse as a means of rounding up criminals."

Fullwood has a prize possession—a letter from Thomas Edison, whom he met in 1886. Edison then was a struggling newsboy.

Just before his death the old inventor wrote him, recalling old times.

Suitable Accommodation

Will Be Provided In Australia For The Duke Of Kent

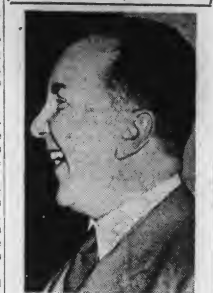

Additional or improved accommodation for the Duke and Duchess of Kent when the Duke goes to Canberra next year as Governor-General of Australia will be considered soon by the Federal Government.

Premier Joseph Lyons told interviewers considerable expenditure would be necessary to provide suitable residential facilities. Extensive alterations and additions will be necessary at "Yarralumla," the Governor-General's residence in Canberra, and at Admiralty House, Sydney.

It is believed a suitable residence must be bought or leased in Melbourne, where at present there is no vice-regal residence. Provision of a Melbourne residence is strongly favored by ministers from Victoria.

Andorra, tiny European independent state, has a standing army of one brigadier and nine other ranks. The country has 6,290 inhabitants in its 191 square miles of territory.

HITLER TO HEAR HIM

After saying farewell to United States officials, the recalled German ambassador, Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, smiles for the camera in Washington. The farewell was one of the speediest on record, Dieckhoff's visit to Mr. Cordell Hull lasting two minutes, while the general run of diplomatic visits lasts from 10 minutes to an hour. Dieckhoff was recalled to report on the "curious attitude" of the U.S. Government in the current anti-Jewish drive in Germany.

Might Help Western Farmers

Canada's New Wheat King Suggests Sit-Down Strike

It might be advisable for Western farmers to go on a "sit-down" strike to gain rightful recognition of their industry, New Linden, Canada's new wheat king, declares.

Interviewed at his 830-acre farm, 40 miles south of Edmonton, Linden said the only solution to problems of Western Canadian farmers was some form of controlled production.

The Swedish-born farmer finds, after years of toil, the only thing he has been able to make any money on is "pigs." Other farm products cost more to produce than they pay in return.

As a grower of prize wheat, oats and barley he has gained honor and as he put it "a few medals that you couldn't get 50 cents for if you sold as bullion."

Mr. Linden, who won the Dominion wheat crown at the 1934 Royal Winter Fair, believes the position of the agriculturist could be improved by decreased production.

Cattle Exports To U.S.

Figures released by the United States Treasury Department covering livestock imports from January 1 to October 1, show that 88.7 per cent of the quota on calves has been filled, while only 44.4 per cent of the quota on cattle weighing 700 pounds and over, and 26.2 per cent of the quota on dairy cows weighing 700 pounds and over, have been utilized. These percentages include both the Canadian and Mexican imports in these classes to the United States.

The words "the," "and" and "or" occur most frequently in the English language.

Study The Constitution

Senate Will Examine Legislation Passed Since 1927

During the forthcoming parliamentary session, the Senate will engage itself largely with a study of Canada's constitution. To this end it will examine legislation passed since 1927 amending the British North America Act. He has also been studying various judgments on constitutional points handed down by the judicial committee of the Imperial Privy Council since Confederation. Mr. O'Connor will present a report to the Senate when the house opens.

Among other things the Senate will probably resume its study of the railway problem. Last session two months were occupied in an exhaustive survey of Canadian railways, particularly with a view to easing the burden on the shoulders of the taxpayers.

The likelihood is national defence problems also will loom large in the proceedings of the Upper House.

Signalman Saved Train

Quick Action Turned Smash Into Comparatively Minor Bump

Southern Railway signalman Robert W. Kelso, of Mayflower-road, Stouffville, England, averted London's worst train smash in years, and turned it into a comparatively minor "bump."

He knew the main line Victoria-Ramsgate express was due.

He jammed all signals at danger, grabbed a red flag, leaped down the steps, set off along the line as fast as he could run.

The express roared into sight and brakes screeched as he driver saw the red flag.

Just before it came to rest it struck the goods van of the electric train.

Ten persons were injured or had shock.

His Candid Opinion

The master of ceremonies, after a flowery speech, exclaimed: "Gentlemen, the toast is the ladies. God bless them, they are the sweets of life."

A bachelor rose to support the toast. "Gentlemen," he said, "it is quite right what my friend said. The ladies are the sweets of life. One half of them are acid drops and the other half are humbugs!"

Remember—a telephone pole never hits an automobile and trains don't chase cars down the road. Let them alone and they'll let you alone.

Hawaii produces about 216,000 cans of pineapple annually. Placed side by side, these cans would reach halfway around the world.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 11
THE SIN OF COVETOUSNESS

Golden Text: Thou shalt not covet. Exodus 20:17.
Lesson: Exodus 20:17; Luke 12:15-21; I. Timothy 6:6-10.
Devotional reading: Proverbs 22:23-28.

The Tenth Commandment: The Sin of Covetousness: Exodus 20:17. Thou shalt not covet. This commandment differs from all the others in that it has to do with a man's relation to himself, his inner thoughts. Rather than being a law against acts, it directs man to control impulses which may lead to acts. It legislates for the control of thoughts and desires. Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life, Proverbs 4:23.

Desire in itself is not evil. Covetousness goes far beyond desire. "To covet is to find pleasure in what is seen as belonging to another, to cherish desire for his possession and use, to set the heart on it, to yearn and long for it, to break the God-ordained barriers in order to reach and seize it."

The commandment specifies objects which in these early days were desired—"thy neighbor's house, thy neighbor's wife, his man-servant, his maid-servant, his ox, his ass," anything that was his neighbor's. "To wish for a house in which to live, to desire a wife to grace it, or the agents necessary to manage it, or marketable values in addition; these are helpful signs of all knights of industry, harmful to none—even the possessors. Desire passes into evil when it becomes envious and when others hold; when it would—were the power possessed—give its cost to selfish gratification at another's cost" (Alvin Poole).

"In this day the commandment might read: Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's automobile, thy neighbor's ability to make a large salary; thy neighbor's honor; his trip abroad; thy neighbor's educational advantages; his good looks; his legacy—anything that is thy neighbor's."

Gifts For The King

Will Be Offered In Canada Under Ancient Pledge

When the king visits Canada next summer he will be offered "two elk and two black beavers" as his right under an ancient pledge, Hon. Vincent Massey said in a speech at London.

Addressing a dinner of the City Livery club the Canadian high commissioner said the charter of the Hudson's Bay Company provided that "whenever the sovereign visits the territory of the governor and Company of the Hudson's Bay Company, he shall be presented with two elk and two black beavers."

Wheat Consumption Within Canada

In 1928, when the population of Canada was 13,511,000, the apparent home consumption of wheat was 22,822,000 bushels. In 1937 with an estimated population of 11,120,000 the home consumption of wheat was placed at 30,904,000 bushels. The highest point reached was 139,487,000 bushels in 1930 when the population was estimated at 10,208,000.

Not Room For Ali

But White House Will Accommodate Part Of Royal Entourage

King George and Queen Elizabeth will be house guests at the White House when they visit the United States next year after a visit to Canada.

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt told her press conference she and the President would entertain their royal visitors and such people in their party as they deemed necessary to have with them, but other arrangements would be made for some members of the royal entourage as she understood there would be 40 in the party and it would be impossible to accommodate all in the White House.

The King and Queen will be the first reigning royals to be entertained overnight at the White House.

Tests Are Severe

For Young Men Entering Government Service In Italy

Tests fully as severe as those recently given Fascist leaders in Italy are compulsory for all who want to enter the government service in Tibet. A horseman and shooting test for 24 young men is described by the British Mission to Lhasa in its diary, which has been made public in Simla, India. Musket firing and arrow shooting on horseback were tested in the morning. A contest in arrow shooting dismounted was held in the afternoon. The contest was judged according to the distance of the arrow shot. Ceremonial scarves were presented as prizes.

The Real Trouble

Too Frequent Use Of Expression "O.K." Makes It Objectionable

An obscure columnist in an Eastern college publication writes of having heard a woman refer deprecatingly to another woman as "the kind of person, you know, who says O.K." From which it would appear, says the Minneapolis Journal, that there are circles wherein O.K. is definitely out. There is not a thing wrong with the term, says the Minneapolis expression. In two syllables it puts finally upon an acceptance or an understanding. Like most Americanisms, the trouble with O.K. is that it is done to death.

Ordered To Take Rest

Doctors Say Canada's First Woman M.P. Has Tired Heart

Agnes Macphail, Canada's first woman M.P., revealed she has a tired heart, the doctor who made the diagnosis, she told the United Farm Women in the King Edward hotel in Toronto, have advised her to take a six-months' rest.

"I need rest. I don't think there is anything fundamentally wrong with me," Miss Macphail said later. Miss Macphail intimated she would take her seat when the House of Commons opens Jan. 12.

1938 Outlook

Preliminary work has begun on the preparation of the agricultural situation and outlook for 1939. This annual review of the position of Canadian agriculture is issued jointly by the Dominion Departments of Agriculture and Trade and Commerce and is designed to assist farmers in planning their business operations.

Futile Phrases

"I didn't know it was loaded." "I thought there was room to pass." "I didn't see the train coming." "I thought the water was shallow." "I forgot there was poison in one bottle." How many, many tragedies have been explained in these futile phrases, states the Ottawa Journal.

A golfer playing for only 10 cents on the first hole, and losing, then doubling the bet on each succeeding hole, and losing, would cost $26.21430 in an 18-hole match. 2284

POOR MAN'S GOLD

Courtney Ryley Cooper

Late afternoon arrived. Abstractedly, as he worked, Hammond became aware that there was a great deal of loud conversation of a joyous type from upstream, where Olson seemed to find a new pocket only that he might dig into another. Several of the more successful placer miners from more distant claims were there, poking about. Mrs. Joyce also was present; for that matter, it was seldom that Hammond looked toward Olson's claim without finding her somewhere in the picture.

It was not a new strike, he knew that—there was no shouting and running about, no concerted movement of curious miners from other diggings. After a time Jack forgot the matter. Then the work day ended and his men made the clean-up. Hammond panned the nuggets therefrom, walked a bit with Kay on the trail to the cuttings, and finally came away from her that he might lead upstream and find Kenning at the new development, some dozen shafts, driving deep into the earth upon a broad front, far from the last pit which McKenzie Joe had dug over against the slope, in the forest. This was abandoned now and covered with logs. Jack had not been near it since the day McKenzie Joe went away. At last, sighting Kenning on the flat, he shouted:

"Anything good to-day?"

The geologist shook his head. Then as Hammond approached:

"Can't expect much yet. We're still twenty or twenty-five feet above where the stuff ought to be."

Hammond laughed.

"It's got to turn out."

"How can it help turning out?" Kenning asked. "That river ran over here somewhere. Unless," he added, "it defied every rule of geology and swung under the bench land where I filed that worthless bunch of claims."

"You've never pulled those out," Hammond suggested. "You said something about it when we signed our agreement about having to take out eight acres for that English syndicate."

Kenning nodded thoughtfully.

"I've got to be getting at that. Had a letter from them yesterday. Should have decided it over before. But oh, I don't know, when I got home at night—"

Hammond said nothing. Bruce, he knew, was seldom home, at least until late. His cabin rarely bore evidences of his presence when Jack went up on the hill, of evenings, to be with Kay and her mother. And the workmen talked daily of what Kenning had done over at Whoopee, at the roulette table. Jack gave it little attention; he felt that Bruce's winnings or losses could not be for sizeable amounts. At least, he said nothing about it, except now and then to explain his haggardness by good-naturedly cursing himself for being a fool about roulette.

"Know what I think I'd better do?" Kenning asked suddenly. "That bench land's no good. Both of us know that. But I never take chances. I think I'll pull off a couple of men from this work here and put down a test pit. Just to be sure. Then, when it's done, I'll draw out that acreage and get rid of that English syndicate. Send 'em what they're looking for—" he laughed abruptly—"Something we don't want."

Hammond laughed with him.

"Put down a test pit and then we'll be sure of it," he answered, and headed slowly back toward camp. But within sight of his cabin, he began to hurry. Mrs. Carve, the Joyce, was there. Kay had sent her to bring him up the hill. Hammond finished the ascent of the trail on a run. He never before had received a summons like this.

Kay was in the living room, walking about, her hands clasped tightly before her. From a distance came the faint drone of an airplane.

"You're late," she said.

"I came as quickly as I could. I was at the upper workings. What's happened?"

She gave a brittle laugh.

"Well," came abruptly, "I'm alone."

"Where's your mother?"

"That's it."

"You don't mean—"

"They're in that airplane, bound for Wrangell."

"She's gone with Olson?"

The girl laughed again, that queer, thin-drawn laugh.

"Yes, she's gone with Olson. He sold out this afternoon, to a bunch from up the creek. I tried to get hold of you—thought maybe you could argue with her. But it wouldn't have helped. She's wanted to see him. So they're gone. Timmy's flying them to Wrangell."

Another month went by, blazing hot days, deepening into chill nights, with the dusk creeping over the valley more swiftly with each passing day. The beads had left the rock slides; berries were gone and leaves withered. The little town became a mass of dead spurs. Autumnal drowsiness was upon the North, growing more and more brittle and menacing each day. With every cloud, miners turned their eyes skyward in search of evidence of the first snow.

"Mr. Kenning wants you up here at the bench shaft!" he exclaimed. Hammond hesitated only long enough to summon Kay. Then with her breathless beside him, they hurried to the upper diggings. Kenning, newly impatient, awaiting them.

"Don't ask me why it happened!" he said bluntly. "It's against everything I figured. It's just everything that's all."

He extended his clutched hands opening them. Kay gave a half scream and moved forward. Hammond closed behind her. The man's palms were heaped with yellow gold; the wet sand of deep gravel still clung to the bulging nuggets.

"The gravel's choked with them!" Kenning said, in a queer voice. Hammond stared at the yellow wealth.

"But how did it get there? Away over on this bench land this has been solid earth for—"

"A thousand years!" answered Kenning. "But there's gravel beneath."

"Certainly. You can find gravel almost anywhere. But for gold to be in it have you struck bedrock?"

"We're not anywhere near bedrock," Kenning answered.

"You needn't shout," Kay suggested. Bruce laughed. "Well, what are you shaking about?"

"I guess everybody's nervous," Hammond cut in. He wiped the back of a hand across his wet forehead. "So we've found it here. Where we least expected it." Again he asked, "Listen, Kenning, don't think I'm crazy. Do you are sure? Are you really sure?"

The man nodded toward the gaping shaft.

"Get down here and shovel out a painful and sep for yourself," he answered.

They were in Jack's cabin; Hammond was still shaken from the excitement caused by the painful of earth which he had taken from the gravel of the benchland test pit. Kay walked about nervously, Kenning paced through a tin box which he had brought down from his cabin; Hammond likewise had taken a bundle of papers from his hiding place under his bunk.

"It's a damn good thing we didn't take care of that English syndicate before we sank that test pit," Kenning said.

"Well," Kay announced, "if you had, I'd have been sunk."

"You?"

"After all the louting I did, to get Jack to take your advice."

"That would have been a hot one, now wouldn't it?" Jack Hammond hardly realized that he was speaking. He still could remember little but that pan of gravel as repeated washings slowly carried away the dross, at last to reveal the heavy sediment of golden globules. "If we'd signed away that land—and then this crooked England outfit had come along and made a ten-strike—"

"Not much danger of that," Kenning answered. "I told you in the beginning that they never intend to work it. Three years from now, we'll be able to buy back any land we sell them at our own price—if we want it."

"And the problem is," Kay broke in, "to find something they don't want." She turned again to the window. "Looking for me, Mrs. Carve?" she called. The maid of all work came nearer the cabin.

"Feet's already ready, Miss Kay," she announced.

"Thanks, I'll walk up with you," She turned, at the door. "Good night, Jack."

"Oh—good night, Kay—good night."

"Aren't you going to kiss me?" He dropped the bundle of papers that he might rush to her.

"That gold's made an idiot of me." Suddenly his hands clenched. "Go, Kay! We've found it!"

"For all the good it does me."

"That's out." There was a drive to his voice. "I give the orders from now on."

She kissed him and patted him on the cheek.

"So that's what a few nuggets can do!"

But he would not let her go. Impulsively he seized her, kissing her a dozen times, hugging her until she protested.

"That's it," he said huskily. "I'll give the orders. I'm boss—I'll tell you how to be happy. You can't imagine what this strike has done for me. Dearest!"

Laughing, she pushed him away.

"I've a fair idea," she answered, and calling good-night to the obsessed Kenning, went forth to join Mrs. Carve. Hammond watched her until she was lost in the twist of the ascending trail.

"Kay's been swell about not wanting to marry me. Just because I had money," he said brusquely, as he rejoined Kenning. "But I really didn't want money to offer her before—just those Looen creek claims."

"You've got plenty now."

"And some to spare. That reminds me. What are we going to do now about that English syndicate?"

"Yes, we ought to get that out of the way," Kenning consulted the list of holdings. "I don't see anything here that can come out of the stuff I threw in the pot."

"It's all on the course of that gravel bed, isn't it?"

"If that stream came down from the hills the way we've got to figure, all the claims I staked are right in line."

"What about giving those leases, over where we've been digging the big bunch of test pits?"

Kenning wrinkled his brow.

"No. I still think that land's good. There's an explanation."

"I don't see it."

"Suppose Big Moose hit one obstacle, some tremendous rock that's since either been covered up, or ground to pieces and washed away?"

"Say, maybe you're right."

"It stands to reason. The natural result would have been a split of the stream, wouldn't it? Half of it would have travelled right where my findings show it should have gone. The rest of it easily could have swung over to this side."

"It doesn't leave much of a selection for your English friends."

"Don't call me friends. They're swine, the whole gang of them. But I got mixed into it; I'll keep my word and send them something."

"There isn't much left."

Kenning laughed.

"Nothing except where Joe was working. If they want a worthless tract, that's that."

Treating Neck Fractures

Method Of Denver Physician More Comfortable For Patient

A new method of healing broken necks by boring holes in the skull and attaching wires through them to pull the head up was described before the Southern Medical Association.

The device, demonstrated by Dr. Ralph M. Stuck, of Denver, Colo., is designed to pull apart the broken fragments of the backbone until they have time to heal. It makes the wearing of a plaster collar unnecessary until late in the mending process.

In applying it to the victim of an automobile or other accident the young Denver physician bores two holes in the skull just back of the normal hairline, inserts a retracting device of clamp, and attaches to it wires which exert an upward pull of from five to thirty pounds by means of weights attached to the ends.

This method has resulted in a large improvement in the number of recoveries from neck fractures and is more comfortable for the patient before Columbus crossed the Atlantic. The Great Admiral, however, discovered the sweet potato growing in the new world, and introduced it into southern Europe.

The sweet potato is relation of the white potato, and is among the most important food crops in the United States, ranking 7th place. Sweet potatoes weighing as big as 40 pounds are grown in the island of New Britain in the South Seas. In Szechwan, China, sweet potatoes are so cheap they are known as "beggars' food," and impoverished individuals are nicknamed "sweet potato eaters."

A temple of the sweet potato formerly was to be found in Japan; offerings were made to the plant god every spring and autumn.

The sweet potato was apparently a flowering plant early in its history, and it still blooms in the tropics. It doubtless had difficulty keeping alive through flowers and seeds and turned to storing food at its roots from these food sources for the next crop; in the course of its evolution, flowers and seeds were abandoned.

A Useful Caterpillar

A South American insect, the cactoblastis caterpillar, is the star of an educational film produced in Brisbane, Australia. The film shows how the caterpillar has reclaimed more than 60,000,000 acres of land in Queensland that had previously been covered with prickly pear, a cactus plant introduced from America as an ornamental pot plant.

Civilization's greatest handicap has always been mankind's inability to reject any fool idea that is preached long enough.

CANADIAN BREEDERS IMPORT BELGIAN STALLIONS

This picture shows part of the shipment of eight big Belgian stallions and a mare which arrived in Montreal on board the Canadian Pacific freighter "Beaverford". The stallions were imported by G. Arnold of Granville, Que., and the mare by a breeder at Trois Rivieres.

The Latest Hobby

Collecting Dolls Has Been Added To Buttons And Stamps

Dolls are the American collector's No. 1 fad this year.

That's the word from O. C. Lightner, director of the current annual Chicago Antique Exposition and Hobby Show with dealers and collectors from New York to California to sell, swap, show—and brag.

A tour through the 300 exhibits in this mass outcropping of collector-mania showed that Americans are hunting down mustache cups, buttons worn by famous people, old dinner bells—in fact, just about everything with a touch of age or history that isn't nailed down.

Collectors are favoring dolls in native foreign costume, and in the collection of Yvonne Schin of Chicago, there is a little French aristocrat in the dress of a marchioness who managed to keep her bisque head during the French revolution.

Not all the doll collectors are women, for John Conover of Ossining, N.Y., has two dolls made in 1740, but men tend to like dolls made on the scale of the wood cigar store American Indian.

Indian relics of all kinds have their devotees. Early American china and glass continue as popular collectors' items—and some of it is getting up in the money. Add to this colorful glass paper weights, old sheet-metal, harness buttons, as newcomers in favor of "button, button, who got the button?" can probably be found with Mrs. K. L. Brown of Kansas City, who has 31,000 of them.

As for the stamp collectors, they're a colony in themselves.

Origin Not Known

Sweet Potato Apparently A Flowering Plant Early In Its History

The sweet potato is used in making glue for postage stamps. Mucilage, usually added for stamps, is produced from starch contained in the tuber.

The origin of the sweet potato is not known with certainty, but it is spoken of in the Chinese Encyclopedia of Agriculture, written long before Columbus crossed the Atlantic. The Great Admiral, however, discovered the sweet potato growing in the new world, and introduced it into southern Europe.

The sweet potato is relation of the white potato, and is among the most important food crops in the United States, ranking 7th place.

Here's Quick Relief from Their Distress!

Rub soothing, warming Musterole well into your chest.

Musterole is NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing old-fashioned gold mustard—mustard, and other valuable ingredients, in a clean white ointment.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musterole penetrates, stimulates, warms and soothes, helpful in quickly relieving lung congestion and pain. Used by millions for 50 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Made in Canada, in three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), Extra Strong. All druggists, 40¢ each.

Story Of Gold Rush Days

Woman Tells How Hundred Dollar Piano Was Sold For $1.00

How $100 piano played over icy Chilkoot Pass brought $1,800 in Dawson during the Klondike gold rush was a tale told by a woman at Portland, Oregon.

Mrs. Bill Huson went to Juneau in 1894, and was a bride by the time the '96 gold mad crowds scrambled across the Dyea Trail over Chilkoot Pass to Dawson.

Now Bill had a piano made in Hong Kong, for which he paid $100. Mrs. Huson related during the tenth annual gathering of the Alaska-Yukon International Souvenirs' Organization. She figured the earning capacity of that music box would be stupendous in Dawson, so she prevailed upon her husband to take it there.

The Husons and two men dismantled it at Dyea. Mrs. Huson entwined the precious mechanism in yarn, and joined the gold-seeking chain of humanity that weaved across the frozen snow. They tugged it eight miles in 25 days. It took them two agonized days to get across Chilkoot Pass. When they finally reached Dawson, the piano was still in good condition, thanks chiefly to the yarn wrappings.

"We were sick and tired of the sight of it then," said Mrs. Huson. "Bill Emerson had a new singer at his Northern hotel, and he wanted the piano and when he offered us $1,800 we sold out."

"I unwrapped the yarn and made eight petticoats. I told them for $45 each."

The Husons opened a restaurant. Money poured in and Mrs. Huson caught the gold fever and took up a bench claim. She sold it for $9,000. It ultimately paid out better than $100,000 in gold and silver. The Husons now live at Summer, Wash.

Fish Guards Injured Duck

With Rapid Movement Trout Blocks Attack Of Mandarin

George Pickering, a naturalist at the Inglewood Bird Sanctuary in Calgary, thinks perhaps it is a case of love at first sight.

A ten-inch Eastern brook trout has become the guardian of an injured pintail duck, guarding her against the attacks of a pugacious mandarin, a Chinese duck.

All three are in a tank at the sanctuary and scores of nature lovers recently have viewed the queer antics of the guardian fish. When the mandarin plunges into the pintail's tank, the rapid movements, drives him away, using a head-bunting attack.

The trout and the mandarin, says Mr. Pickering, lived a peaceful life, side by side, until the little pintail arrived.

Medical Care Provided

The New York World's Fair is making unusual preparations for the medical care of visitors in view of the fact that actuarial figures indicate that of the 60,000,000 people expected to attend, some 40,000 will require medical aid in the six months after the opening on April 30. Most of these will be minor cases, but the doctors and nurses will be ready for anything.

A gigantic atlas in the British Museum is said to be the world's largest book. It has six-foot pages and was a gift to King Charles II. from the merchants of Amsterdam, Holland.

The honeymoon is over if she phones that she's had a wreck and he says: "Is the car hurt?"

Bobbie: "My father's a policeman. What does your father do?"

Charlie: "Whatever Ma tells him."

Regular Meeting of School Board

Councillors and Trustees to Meet Monday to Discuss Open-Air Skating Rink Question.

By a provincial statute, schools throughout the province will close for the Christmas holidays on Friday, Dec. 23, and reconvene on Tuesday, Jan. 3.

The above statement was contained in Principal Hoyle's monthly report to the trustees. Attendance at the schools during the past month averaged 95.5%. He asked the Board to consider the building of doors to a number of lockers in the school.

Miss Bella Godfrey made application to be considered as a substitute teacher during January, and was placed on the substitute teachers' list.

A letter from the town council was read, asking the trustees to make an appointment to meet them and thoroughly discuss matters pertaining to the open-air skating rink. Monday, Dec. 12, was chosen as the day when both bodies will get together on this matter.

The provincial school trustees convention will meet in Edmonton on Jan. 12 and 13. Appointment of a local delegate to the convention was left in abeyance until a meeting of the Pass trustees.

A request from Dr. Rose asked that the Board have a teacher in the playground during recess to supervise the children. Principal Hoyle was instructed to have a teacher supervise the children during recess.

Accounts passed included: Joe Lardinois $3.50, Coleman Journal $29.95, Excel Builders Supplies $35.19, C. F. R. $4.15, H. C. McBurney $19.20, Coleman Light and Water $62.50, Charles Makin $4.00, Frank Barrington $56, Victor Cyr $5.00, and the Supply Co. $23.46, McGillivray Coal Co. $83.70, International Coal Co. $120.90, A. E. Knowles $14.00, Coleman Hardware $60.45.

HOCKEY TICKET HOLDERS, ATTENTION!

All persons holding season hockey tickets are asked to take their ticket bearing the number, "1st Game," to McBurney's Drug Store, where they will be refunded 50c.

This was made necessary by having to transfer Canadians' first home game, between Canadians and Olds to Lethbridge on Friday evening, due to mild weather preventing here.

Read St. Luke 15

We all get discouraged at times. These are days when it seems that everything goes wrong. Have you ever wondered whether God also gets discouraged?

In "Green Pastures"—the play that stirred the country with its childish and homely picture of "the Lamb"—God is shown as trying to win His people to righteousness, only to have them fail Him time and time again. Finally, He says to the angel Gabriel that He is through, that He's done with them forever. But as He looks out the window of heaven, He sees them suffering and hears their cries. Silently He strides out of His office. "Where are you going?" asks Gabriel.

"Back to my people," says the Lord.

God must indeed be undiscouraged—we fail Him so often—we fail Him so badly. But He doesn't desert us. He doesn't give up. Surely you are not going to give up either.

THE UNITED CHURCH

The third of the series of special Sunday evening services will be held on Sunday, and will be in the interest of the young people in the families of the congregation. The choir will lead the singing. Young people with no other church home are cordially invited to this service. United church young people are asked to make a real effort toward the success of this service.

At the morning service the junior choir will lead the singing, and Sunday school will follow immediately afterward.

The year-end financial appeal is being prepared and will be in the hands of those concerned in a few days. This is the first appeal since the anniversary in May, and should meet with a ready response.
